Whole-Genome Alignment Description Whole-genome alignment is the task of aligning entire genomes: first, the genomes are broken into segments of a fixed length, and then at each position in the reference genome, a score is calculated (based on some measure of similarity) for a specified sequence in the input genome (this method is called "coverage-guided"). More often, however, the output is given as a set of (map, mate) pairs: for each pair, the alignment, and the corresponding reference position, are listed in order of start position. The closest alignment is the default output. BMW M Model 3 BMW M Model 3 is a test car of BMW which is derived from the BMW 3 Series. The name refers to the M3 model designation, though this is unofficial, and is used to differentiate it from the entry-level 3 Series, which is designated as the M3. The M3 is first seen in marketing materials in June 2011. The M3 is a replacement for the previous M model designation. The M3 is an elite, focused performance model, and is considered a direct competitor to the Mercedes-Benz SLS AMG and Audi R8. Development The M3 first revealed at the September 2011 Frankfurt Motor Show and was presented as a mid-life replacement for
